Attorney General Camacho Urges Congress to Take Action Against Robocalls

March 06, 2019, Tamuning, Guam- Attorney General Leevin Taitano Camacho today urged the U.S. Senate to enact the Telephone Robocall Abuse Criminal Enforcement and Deterrence (TRACED) Act, legislation to curb illegal robocalls and spoofing. A coalition of 54 attorneys general, led by North Carolina Attorney General Josh Stein, Nebraska Attorney General Doug Peterson, New Hampshire Attorney General Gordon J. MacDonald, and Mississippi Attorney General Jim Hood, sent a letter to the U. S. Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation supporting the TRACED Act. The legislation is sponsored by Sens. John Thune and Ed Markey.

Robocalls are not only frustrating, but they can also be illegal," said Attorney General Leevin T. Camacho. "The widespread support that the Act has received from attorneys general from across the country highlights the commitment that our offices have made to protect consumers from harassment and scams," said Attorney General Leevin Taitano Camacho.

In their letter, the attorneys general state that the TRACED Act enables states, federal regulators, and telecom providers to take steps to combat these illegal calls. The legislation will require voice service providers to participate in a call authentication framework to help block unwanted calls and creates an interagency working group to take additional actions to reduce robocalls and hold telemarketers and robocallers accountable.

More than 48 billion robocalls were made in 2018, making them the number one source of consumer complaints to the FTC and the FCC and resulting in millions in consumer losses. The state attorneys general work to enforce do-not-call laws and protect consumers in their states from being harassed and scammed by robocalls.

Attorney General Camacho is joined in sending this letter by the Attorneys General of all the states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.
